PERSONAL AND SOCIETY.

To-day bids fair to be a typical or rather an ideal Easter, for unless the date is late, the day is apt to be cold and dreary, often rainy, and a great disappointment to the wearer of the new bonnet. The trees are in bloom for the occasion, and as far as outward appearances go, it will be a joyous Easter. Quite a number of visitors are in town to spend the day, and a few citizens have gone away for a short visit. The great outgoing and incoming of travel, though, has not begun. Plans are being made for visits this summer, and, as usual, all points of the compass will be only too limited a space for the Hoosier to go. Indiana resorts are growing in popularity and Lake Maxresorts are growing in popularity and Lake Maxinkuckee has already been visited by those who have, or are going to have, cottages, and preparations made for the summer's stay. Numerous conventions are to be held in Eastern cities and the delegate will turn his or her eyes toward the Atlantic. There is no national school teacher's convention on the Pacific slope, so the land of the setting sun will not claim those indetatigable workers for this summer as it did last year. The season of picnics and outdoor games is at hand, and a healthier race of young men and women may be looked for. Social matters are not looking up as was promised, so society's devotees will be all the more ready for its pleasures when they do begin.

The interest of society people for Friday and Saturday of this week will be centered in the illustrated "Little Lord Fauntleroy," which will be given at the Grand Opera-house, under the auspices of the ladies of Meridian-street Church. Inasmuch as a large number of society people will take part, Miss Marion Sterns, of Springfield, Mass., will read the story. She will be remembered as having done so admirably in her reading of "Ben-Hur." The following is the cast, and the ladies consider it complete in every particular.

Travelers—Mrs. G. W. Coombs, Mrs. A. J. Beveridge, Mrs. Will Brown, Mrs. H. T. Bennett, Miss Amelia Fletcher, Miss Genevieve Elliott, Miss Nellie Coffin, Miss Mary Fletcher, Miss Lizzie Walker, Miss Florence Coffin, Messrs. Henry Baldwin, Will Brown, Carrol L. DeWitt, John

Baldwin, Will Brown, Carrol L. DeWitt, John Holland, Lewis Langdon, Herbert Holland.

Vallet—Paul Floyd.

Church Attendants—Mrs. A. J. Hatch, Mrs. G. W. Coombs, Mrs. A. J. Beveridge, Mrs. J. N. Carey, Mrs. Wm. Scott, Miss-Luella Miller, Miss Bessie Wells, Miss Carrie Bayles, Miss Nellie Bayles, Miss Emma Coppage I. N. Todd, J. N. Carey, Lowe Carey, Dr. Anderson, Carrol De Witt, Dr. Dan Thompson.

Party and Lawn Fete—Miss Florence Coffin, Miss Genevieve Ellott, Miss May Closser, Miss Lillian Potter, Miss Shirley Daily, Miss Nellie Browning, Miss Lucia Browning, Miss Katherine Stone, Miss May Shipp, Miss Fannie Marsh, Miss Lura Bryner, Miss Edith Fountain, Mrs. Will Brown, Mrs. H. Bernett, Miss Katle Stewart, Miss Gertrude Bulter, Harry Pomeroy, Fredrick Deitrich, Harry Murphy, Carroll De Witt, Lewis Langdon, Dr. Anderson, John Holland, Will Brown, Herbert Collins.

This is the latest "fad"-whatever a fad may be. A short while ago the raging fad with the ladies was to have everything in at least one room in a house cream color. But cream color has had its day and now no house is complete without having one apartment furnished in the new color. Carpets, draperies, wall-papers and upholstery must now be pumpkin yellow to be in style.
